It is unnecessary in this connection to enumerate all the complaints treated at the Institute, but the Doctor feels it his duty to call especial attention to the terrible scourge,

SEMINAL WEAKNESS,

That is sapping with its insidiousness the very life of its victims; to the treatment and cure of which the Institute has gained so enviable a reputation.

Nothing can be further from the truth. Weakness is, as a rule, the result of some folly committed by the young, and those who devotes his time to the treatment of this disease can be detected by the following symptoms: Dimness of sight, loss of memory, confusion of ideas, nervousness, trembling of the hands, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, constipation, costiveness, paleness of the face, eruptions on the face, pimples on the face, aversion to society, self-distrust, love of solitude, timidity, etc. Those who are troubled with any of the above symptoms are suffering from the secret habit of youth, the effects of which are sometimes found in the following constitutional affections: Dimness of sight, loss of memory, confusion of ideas, nervousness, trembling of the hands, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, constipation, costiveness, paleness of the face, eruptions on the face, pimples on the face, aversion to society, self-distrust, love of solitude, timidity, etc. Those who are troubled with any of the above symptoms are suffering from the secret habit of youth, the effects of which are sometimes found in the following constitutional affections:

Rebel Views of the Situation

We have already had some information as to how the rebel and unreconstructed people of the South receive the nomination of Seymour and Blair and what they expect will result from their election. Governor Vance probably stated in a nutshell the views and hopes of the chivalry when he said: what the soldiers of the Confederacy fought for would be won by the election of Seymour and Blair. The news from all parts of the southern states certainly indicate that in no part of the country have the Democratic nominations met with so much favor as in these districts where the rebellious spirit of the people has never died out and no class of Democrats are so enthusiastic in their demonstrations as those who outlawed themselves by overt treason.

To show more fully than would be indicated by mere telegrams announcing ratification meetings we present a few clippings from Democratic newspapers of the south. The Memphis Avalanche, endorsing Seymour, says:

"It was through the mighty influence of his high position, and through the irrefragable teachings of his statesmanship that Radicalism too weighty for Lincoln himself, met its first baulk."

The "baulk" referred to was met by the Union party, in New York, in 1863, when after Seymour had been elected upon his war declarations of the year before, he set to work systematically to discourage the war to encourage a counter revolution in the North to defeat and stop the draft. The development of his strategic "baulk" of the Radicals was the anti-draft riot in New York city.

The Macon, Georgia, Journal and Messenger a bitter rebel organ welcomes the nominations thus:

"The nomination of Horatio Seymour of New York, by the Democratic National Convention was received here with the utmost satisfaction. We require no introduction to our readers. A statesman of eminent ability, a States' Rights Democrat, a firm, true and unflinching advocate of the old constitution, he will rally to his standard every patriot in the land. During the war when every principle of the constitution was be ing violated by this Lincoln administration, Seymour's voice was heard high above the clamor of arms in defence of that instrument."

The violation of the Constitution by President Lincoln, according to the views of the Journal and Messenger, consisted in his resistance to the practical application of the States rights doctrines of secession, and it is true that Seymour's voice was heard in defence of the Constitution as it was interpreted by the States rights, secession conspirators.

The Pine Bluffs, Arkansas, Vindicator which supports Seymour and Blair enthusiastically, shows with what kind of spirit the Democracy of Arkansas goes into the campaign. It says:

"We are now in the building from which flutered the first Confederate flag in Arkansas. The glory of that day has departed outwardly. Changes have been wrought, but the memory of that morning on which was unfurled the Stars and Bars in honor of Arkansas defending her honor by secession, will never die. Not even the ravages made by the despoiler's hand, can eradicate one glorious remembrance of the past. We live as of yore, and though chained and down trodden by force, know the time is fast approaching when right and justice will sing a requiem over the tomb of Radical wrong. On the spot of our office still stands the shattered storm beaten staff that buoyed up the flag of liberty, and although that emblem ceases to be kissed by the sun of fame, the staff remains to remind us of what we were, and we hope when it falls it will rest on the grave wherein lies every Radical in this country."

We suppose that in case Seymour and Blair are elected, the "stars and bars" so affectionately remembered, will go up again on the Vindicator building and the work of grave digging for Radicals will immediately begin in Arkansas.

THE ANCIENT GRANTS.—At the end of the first chapter of Dana's Life of General Grant, is a note giving some statements of the origin of the Grant family, the substance of which is that they were of Norman extraction, and after the Conquest became numerous and powerful in Scotland. In "Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica" it is related that Dr. Gen. Francis Grant, who died in 1761, had a monument erected over his remains by his family, on which appeared his crest—a burning mount with the motto: "Steadfast." Pitcairn's "Crests of Families of Great Britain and Ireland" gives twenty-one crests of the Grant family. One of them was a burning hill with four peaks, each surmounted by a flame and motto "Stand Sure, Stand Fast; Craig Elachie." Robson's "British Heralds" gives twenty-four crests of different Grants. Grant of Jamaica had a burning mount—motto: "Stabit." Grant of Grant had a burning mount supported by two savages motto "Stand Sure." Grant of Currimony, a demi savage—motto: "I'll Stand Sure." Grant of Lieth, crest, a rock—motto "Immobile." The note says "One of the most distinguished regiments of the British army in India during the Sepoy rebellion, was a Highland regiment composed almost entirely of Grants, bearing upon their colors the motto "Stand Fast—Craig Elachie."

It seems from these records that firmness and steadfastness of purpose were the distinguishing characteristics of the Grant family from their earliest known history to the present day. The family in America are distinguished for the possession of the same traits and General Ulysses Grant exhibits them in the most marked degree. His acceptations dispatch, "I propose to fight it out on this line" came from the same spirit which seems to have animated his sturdy ancestors.

The Richmond (Va.) Examiner says: "The Fourth of July, having ceased to be of the slightest interest to the white people of the south, like a worn-out pair of breeches it has fallen into Cuffey's hands."

From which it may appear how well a "white man's government" with such means the Examiner editor at the head of it would take care of the heritage left us by the Fathers of '76. The Herald of this city has often compared the rebels of 1861-5 to the revolutionists of 1776 placing them on equally grand terms in point of loyalty. The above extract from the Examiner will show that the rebels do not look upon themselves as at all in the same boat with Washington and his compatriots.

AGES OF THE CANDIDATES.—We find a statement of the ages of the four candidates for President and Vice President as follows: Grant, 46; Colfax, 45; Seymour, 57; and Blair, 46.

Gen. Brownlow sent in a communication presenting an ordinance for submitting to the vote of the people an amendment to the Constitution conferring the right of suffrage on all males, without distinction of color, of proper age and citizens of the State. Should a majority of the voters decide in favor of the amendment then the present Legislature is to constitute a legal Convention with authority to meet and adopt the amendment. The Senate referred the message and inclosure to a special Joint committee. The House having been notified adopted in lieu of the Senate proposition a resolution declaring that the present is not the time to consider a franchise feature of the Constitution—ayes 50, noes 26. Final action in the Senate's proposition, as amended will be taken to-morrow. The action of the House is regarded as practical rejection of overtures for the extension of the franchise.

Bonds for the Pacific Railroad.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The President has directed the issue of bonds and patent to the Central Pacific Railroad for another section of twenty miles, ending at the 130th mile east of Sacramento.

Indian Commissioner Murphy telegraphs encouragingly relative to the prospect of successful negotiations with the Indians.

Important Commercial Convention

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 4.—The International Commercial Convention met here to-day. Delegates were present from all parts of the country and from Canada. Two hundred and five have already arrived and more are expected. Governor Merrill, of Iowa, was elected permanent chairman and a committee of fourteen was appointed on order of business, when the Convention adjourned till the afternoon.

In the International Convention on reassembling, the Committee on Order of Business reported the following: first, for a railroad across the continent. Second, for a lake and river canal for navigation. Third, for international and commercial relations. Letters were read from distinguished gentlemen who were unable to attend. James M. Taylor, of St. Paul, Minnesota, addressed the Convention on the railroad and ship canal interests of the west. He said the best road to the sea without reshipment, is what the west wants and when ship canals shall open to the St. Lawrence a way to a portion of the great inland waters, the proud city of New York will be compelled to afford the same privilege with her canal and railway system. This is the key of the canal system. On closing he alluded to the great future railway across the territories to Puget Sound. A committee was appointed to prepare resolutions upon these subjects. The chairman of the first committee was Hon. H. W. Corbett of Portland, Oregon, chairman of second committee J. W. Taylor, of St. Paul, Minn. of the third, W. R. Craig, of Detroit, Mich. The Convention then adjourned until Wednesday morning.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 5.—At the International Commercial Convention, Erastus Brooks was invited to address the convention. He alluded to the mortifying fact that fifty foreign steamers trade between New York and Europe and not one American. He thought the repeal of the reciprocity treaty was in spirit really injudicious and he would be glad to see another made four times as valuable as the former. He demanded protection as said Congress ought to take steps to improve the navigation of our mighty rivers.

The committee on reciprocal commercial relations reported setting forth the advantages of the reciprocity treaty. Resolutions were adopted calling the early attention of Congress to the subject of free intercourse with the Canadian Dominion.

Senator Corbett from the committee on railways across the continent, reported a resolution that the convention, profoundly impressed with the importance of the change about to take place in commercial relations by the completion of the great Pacific Railroad, and the interests it must excite amongst oriental nations, believed it our duty to complete the enterprise. The resolutions favor three continental railways, one north, and the other south, of the great central route, and urge upon Congress to extend adequate aid to insure the building of these roads. They favor the route to Puget Sound, also, on the 45th parallel.

Amasa J. Parker addressed the convention on the evils of a depreciated currency. Blow, of St. Louis, spoke, urging the importance of a trans-continental railroad, and a common lake, river and canal navigation. He reported resolutions favoring Government co-operation with those States interested in the enlargement of existing canal channels, and other improvements in the St. Lawrence river, so as to admit vessels of a thousand tons into Lake Michigan and Lake Superior from the ocean. The resolutions also favor Government improvement of the great western rivers under Congressional authority to regulate commerce, also, that a judicious expenditure for those purposes should be extended to the Pacific, as well as the Atlantic and Northern coast. The report was adopted and the convention took a recess till evening.

Northwestern Wool Exposition

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The Northwestern Wool Exposition is now being held in this city. This display is far more than the ambitious aims of the most sanguine. The event is treated by the papers as marking an epoch in the manufacturing history of the West. Specimens of manufactured cloths, flannels, cassimeres and shawls are very numerous and fully equal to the best make in this country. The display of raw woolen goods etc. though not so large as manufactured lots is very creditable. It shows that the manufacturing interest is much larger than has been generally supposed.

Seymour's Letter of Acceptance

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Seymour's letter of acceptance is published. It is quite a lengthy document. Seymour says the ammunition was wet-ought, but he was caught by an overwhelming tide which is bearing us on to a quiet political change and finds himself unable to resist the pressure. He concludes by saying that he can't doubt but that we shall gain a political triumph which will restore our Union, bring peace back to our land and give us once more the blessings of a wise, economical and honest government.

The Poisons of the Day.

The late temperance investigations in Massachusetts have thrown a flood of light on the horrible abuses of the liquor trade, and have at the same time illustrated the absolute necessity for some liberated diffusive stimulants for medicinal purposes. Clergymen of the highest standing, men of the highest rank in science and philosophy, physicians who are above the reach of prejudice, have testified not only to the pernicious effects of the adulterated liquors of commerce, but also to the efficacy of uncontaminated alcohol in those cases in which it is curative agents.

First on the list of this class of preparations, best known and most extensively used of all the stomachics of the day stands HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This specific is the only representative of that absolutely pure article which eminent divines, chemists, physicians and social economists in New England have just declared not to be a proper subject for prohibitory legislation. The faculty proclaim by the mouth of its professors that a stimulant of this character is a medical necessity. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS satisfies all the requirements of science. Its alcoholic principle is free from the irritating constituents which analysis detects in even the best imported liquors, and the vegetable extracts with which it is medicated are among the best and most tested restoratives that botanical science in its world wide research, has yet discovered. It has indubitable fact that some constitutions and habitual modes of life demand stimulation and for all such a stimulant which combines mild, diffusive and slight is aperient properties with the tonic virtues is manifestly desirable.

Nasby Goes as Delegate to New York

NEW YORK, at a cheap lordin house
Dooly the 4, 1868

Ef I hed nowd just wat I had to p this with, I never wood naggered fr th p heart now okkupy Had I nowd the cruches I wuz to bucet me the 6 orners mite hev got unrepresented, and the Democrasy mite hev nominated a kandidate without no help I am at a cheap boardin house with is sailed rusly attoosted on an ally th landlady I m one of the anshunt Kings uv Irelun I with her name is O Shaughnessy I exsedent got rooms at the Aster nor the St Nicholas I exsedent git a clerk to look at me for a h an when I did succeed in rivittin the atten shun uv one he flew into a pashun and or dered me to move on, with the onfedin mark that he hed no room for such And that insult mite be added to injoorn the in feelin woman hoo presided over the mansion I inhabit peremptorily refoozed to receive me ontil I paid in advance I tried several places, but ez I hedn't no luggage they vailin opinyun seemed to be that advance payment wood be better, and I wuz forst to return to her

My advenchers on the route were moomerous, if not pleasant

At some punt in Inglany where we changed cars, I found the trane we hed to take full uv delegates In looking around for a seet I dishivered but one that hedn t two in it and that one had in it a disgustin nigger, who hed the impudence to be well drest, and hed a carpet-bag beside him My Demokratic blood riz to wunst Feeling that in a ear filld with Demokratic delegates, anything I should do to a nigger wood be safe, I stawkt proud ly up too him, holdin my nose.

"Good Lord!" sed I, "wat a smell

"Good Lord!" ekoed the delegates with got on at the stashen, "wat a terrible awful smell"

"My gents African fraud," sed I, scowlin him by the collar, "I regret the necessity uv sayin disagreeable things, and still more uv doin em, but the fackt is, your impudence in gettin into a kar uv white gentlemen with the disgustin odor peculiarable from and part uv the African race, is too much. And more es pecially do I wonder at your keepin yo seat while I and these white gentlemen are standing"

"Out with the nigger" yelled the lately arrived delegates "hustle the stinkin cuss

"Mercaful heavens, wat a smell" sung out sevrul of them, "bust him"

Seein myself thus backed, and feeling that a little zeal would be safe, ez niggers can't vote, I knocked his hat out of the winder and followed up that demonstration with a serious attempt to lift him out uv the seat I would have succeeded, but the nigger resisted and resisted vigorously, to-wit he knocked three uv my front teeth down my throte pulled out wat little there wuz left of the hare that hangs in scanty festoons about my venerable temples, blacked both my eyes I wuz lyin on my back in the pa ge, somewhat astonisht the nigger a standing over me, with his boot heel rested over my face, when some gentlemen came in from another car and restrained him

"Mr William," sed they, "let him up He's a poor white trash, and not worth wastin your indignation onto Let him up, Mr Williams, let him up."

"Sars," sed I, "in rising to my feet, tremendous with rage, "is this the treatment I am to ex pect all the way to New York? Am I to be hit hid to jelly by a n g r a stinkin nigger, who, when gentlemen are refined sensibilities and to hear the nigger addrest ez "Mister" after that, instead of bein tored to pieces by the infuriated spectators! Oh shame where is thy blush!

"Too miserable cuss," sed one uv these gentlemen, "apologize to wunst to this gentleman or I pose mealfin do, or we'll shuck you out uv the cars. Apologize, sir, to Josef Williams, delegate at large for the State uv Tennessee"

I almost fainted. This nigger, then, wuz a delegate. He wuz a regler delegate, armed and equipped with regler credenshels to a Democratic Nashnel Convenshen, and I have been guilty in my zeal uv assaultin uv him Gladly I apologized, and further, I humbly begged permission to set beside him, which he did with a graciousness I never saw skralled.

It wuz astonishin the change that crept over Injeany delegates They crowded around us and shook him by the hand—they didn t smell any odor at all any more, on the contrary they seemed to like him They addrest him ez "Mister," and several uv em in particeboon him to ther friends who got on at various stashens, pozzed the prefix "Honorable" Its wonderful wat a differens it makes with a nigger to hev a vote, and also how he votes Hed Mr Williams ben infected with abolitionism, I wuz no doubt that the stench with I reel he would smell when I fust undertook to subjogate him, whod hev contrivved to the end uv the trip. In older times it wuz observed that shave niggers didn t smell—it wuz only free ones. It is a settled fackt now that Democratic niggers are inodorous

We hev known, however, that the nigger was a free nigger, by the way he pitched into me. No nigger in a state uv servitude wood ever hev did such a thing That much they owe to the war, anyhow

My principal object in going to New York wuz to do what I could toward seccouring the nomination uv Jeffko L. Kipplins I found the delegates badly broke up The offer made for votes was so ridiculously low that the wuz much disgust manifested The truble wuz that the market wuz overstocked Had the Convention ben pretty ekally divided, and the balance of power ben held by a few silent mouthed souls, they cood hev made a good thing uv it But where a whole Convenshun is in the market, and all their inflooshel friends, to candidate kin afford to buy I withdrew Mr Kipplins to-wunst for ez he hez but a small farm and that mortgaged to a grocery keeper, the delegates I approached laft me to scorn

I wuz the Committee on Resolooshens on either, wuz in the room ez a sort uv advisory Committee while the resolooshens wuz bein drafted. Gen Forrest uv Tennessee wuz pertickerly anxyus that a resolooshen should be adoptid denouncin the Radicals who wuz with wunholy hands, in strivin to destroy the best Government the sun ever shone upon and one the destruction uv which wood be a calamity which unborn millions wood shed tears over He desired a resolooshen pledgin the Democrasy to stan by the old Stars and Stripes which flag hed braved a thousand breezes, and wuz synonymous uv setters Mr. Wadley, Mr Cobb (Mrs Cobbs, hus hand), and Perry Fuller, purtikerly desired a resolooshen demandin the turnin out uv office uv corrupt men, that the Government might be administered with sumthin like the purity with distinguished it doorin the administrashun uv the late lamented Bookanan, at the wich time my whose name every delegate present held a handkerchief to his eyes for five consecutive minutes, ez tho a great grief had fallen to him

Vallandygum insisted that a plank I inserted which recognized nigger suffrage, but that wuz withheld ontil it cood be ascertained definitely whether Mississippi wuz ready carried by nigger votes or not, Ef a majority uv the niggers did realy vote the Dimocratic ticket it wuz decided that they shood be recognized ez our allys of not, we d see end d-first

Chief-Justis Chase wuz especially anxyus for a resolooshen denouncin in the severest terms them ongrateful, fanatical radicals who had for years ben laboring to subvert the Government, by interfern with the persons and property uv citizens, and also pledgin the Convenshen to that wise conservatism without wich ther cood be no permanency in our Government

I dropt into the Soljers and Sailers Convenshen but I didn t stay long Those whose noses wuzn't red all wanted to be either President or Cabinet officers, and as the balance uv them the leastest sed the better My sole faithful mule I saw at the door uv the Convenshen tied to a post, and I wuz sorry I had ever drawed him from the field. I also saw a delegate who got $10 on me and I also saw a claim agent who got $10 on me and [illegible]

[illegible] That wuz the cose so fur as I [illegible] The Convenshen then wuz in [illegible] the Winnebago Convenshen with [illegible] to wear an [illegible] who [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
